STORM-SWEPT ENGLAND. Violent Gales of Wind Still Doing Damage

on the Coast. Violent gales of wind, accompanied by furious rain storms, continue to sweep over Great Britain and Ireland. Dispatches from Dublin state that the crops throughout the province of many parts of Ulster and elsewhere they are almost entirely submerged. In other sections the crops are in several feet of water and will be completely destroyed. Off Ilfracombe near Barnstable, Devonshire, esterday, during one of the many gales which have swept over these islands recently, a pasenger steamer having 100 passengers on board had a narrow escape from destruction. A succession of heavy seas struck her, sweeping the decks, smashing in the saloon skylights and pouring tons of water down the companion ways. So severe was the pounding this steamer received by the waves that many of the passengers were severely injured, of which num-ber six are in a precarious condition. In the Mersey a fishing smack making for shelter from the storm foundered. All hands were lost in spite of the attempts made to rescue them. On the south coast of England there have been several wrecks and a number of exciting rescues. During Monday night the government cutter Beatrice stranded below Gravesend.

Oysters Abundant but Poor. press dispatch from Baltimore states: The oyster season of 1891-92 began yesterday, and shortly after daybreak a number of pungies and bugees arrived at Canton and Pratt street wharf with portions of cargoes ranging in size from 50 to 180 bushels. The oysters came from West river, Herring bay and Severn river and were gathered with tongs during the night. All or nearly all came from private beds and were not caught from the natural rocks. They were of the fresh-water variety as a general thing and in quality were somewhat poor and small. They sold easily at 80c. to $1.05 per bushel and were bought by packers and restaurant keep-ers. The commission men say that oysters will be abundant during September, but the quality is likely to be somewhat poor and prices will be low. The packing houses are too busy with fruit to take them up in any quantity. All the oysters brought to market until October 15 will sent up by tongers, who for the past two weeks have been busy putting their canoes, skiffs and rakes in trim for the season's work.

He Clubbed the Jeweler A bold jewelry robbery was perpetrated in Philadelphia yesterday. S. R. Weaver, a jeweler at 1123 Chestnut street, received a letter signed by Frank Thompson, 3014 Cabot street, asking that samples of jewelry be sent to the house in order that the mother of the writer might make selections. Salesman Shuler was sent to the address given with a quantity of jewelry. He was conducted into the parlor and displayed his goods on the table. Thompson, who admitted him, suddenly called his attention to the window and when his head was turned struck Shuler on the head with a club. Shuler was knocked down and dazed by the blow, but got up and struggled with his assailant, all the time calling for help. Thompson struck him several times with the club, but at length became frightened and fled, taking with him about $350 worth of jewelry, which he snatched from the table just before he left.

The police are after Thompson. Two Lives Lost in a Fire. The three-story frame dwelling of Jam-Patton, night watchman on Market street Johnstown, Pa., was destroyed by fire vesterday afternoon. Mr. Patton, who was asleep on the third floor, jumped to the street and sustained, it is thought, fatal injuries. A little boy, aged five years, a relative of Mr. Patton, was caught in the building and burned to death.

Mrs. Searles' Will Contest. The San Francisco Argonaut says that people on the Pacific coast are not altogether pleased with the extreme reserve manifested by Mr. Searles, his attorneys and by C. P. Huntington says the Argonaut, "Mrs. Hopkins was unduly influenced or overreached by fraud in disposing of her estate or disinheriting her son these facts will be made to appear and the will be set and a quarter miles. Virgie, 112; Carroll, 118; aside. In our judgment there can be no better snowball, Tea Tray and St. Luke, 120 each; Now or Never, 130; Rover, 115; Chaos, 125. Massachusetts. If this contest comes to an exhibition of bad blood we shall expect startling disclosures that will not be creditable to the measures resorted to by Mr. Searles for the acquisition of the estate."

> An Afliance Man Protests. Gov. Jones of Alabama has appointed Hector agriculture, vice R. F. Kolb, whose term expired yesterday. Lane was an original alliance man, one of the organizers in Alabama, assistant lecturer two terms and for a while editor of the state organ. He always opposed editor of the state organ. He always opposed the alliance entering politics, but favored its standing to original declarations. He occupies a position similar to that of Hall of Missouri. Kolb will contest the governor's right to appoint, claiming that the law making the office electoral at the election in 1852 continues him in office until that time. The legislature refused to adopt a clause in the law to that effect.

The Convict Labor Question Both houses of the Tennessee general assem-bly met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and A NEW WAY TO STEAL

Jewelry Clerk Enticed to a House There Clubbed and Robbed. Jeweler S. R. Weaver of Chestnut street, Philadelphia, received a letter yesterday morning, signed by Frank Thompson, 3014 Cabot street, asking that samples of jewelry be sent to the house in order that the mother of the writer might make selections. Mr. Weaver sent Salesman Frederick W. Schuler to the house yesterday afternoon with a quantity of jewelry. He was conducted into the parlor, and after the articles were displayed on a table Thompson, who had admitted him, excused himself for a moment. On his return the man called Mr. Schuler's attention to the window, and when his head was turned Thompson struck him a violent blow with a club, upon which there was a large lump of lead. Schuler was knocked down and dazed by the blow, and Thompson at once proceeded to fasten his hands with a shawl strap. Schuler was afraid to make any resistance at the time for fear he would be murdered outright, and feigned unconsciousness. After he had tied the prostrate man Thompson pro-ceeded to pocket the jewelry, when Schuler leaped to his feet, and shouting murder, attempted to escape through the vestibuled door. He found the door had been locked and the key taken out, and he was again attacked by Thompson with the club. He warded off the blows as well as he could, and continued to call fer help, all the time endeavoring to kick

His cries were finally taken up by some boys $50,000. St. Mary's Seminary was the first institution of the kind established in this country.

Its foundation was due to Rev. Mr. Emory, superior general of the Society of St. Sulpice during the French revolution. When he perceived that the national assembly of France in 1790 threatered the destruction of all religious institutions in France he thought of seeking a new field of asefulness for his society in the United States. Having learned the same year that Rt. Rev. John Carroll, bishop-elect of Baltimore, had gond to London for the purpose of receiving the episcopal consecration, he sent and reported the case, and after having his cuts and bruises dressed at a drug store went to the central station and reported to Chief of Detectives Wood. The man Thompson was recognized at once by Chief Wood from the description given by Mr. Schuler. He is known as a thief and has been arrested for burglary and larceny.

COSTLY DRESSES.

They Were Designed for Mrs. Astor, bu She Refused to Pay the Duty. Mrs. Astor's gowns, on which the duty o

$416.88 is still unpaid, were offered for sale in New York yesterday at public auction by custom house officers. Many women, among them Cora Tanner, the actress, and Mrs. Henry C. Miner, attended the sale and enjoyed a sight of the Astor dresses, which were very lovely. The first gown shown was a pale blue satin ball costume, embroidered elaborately in delicate pink carnations with living green stems. It has a court train. The bodice has short puffed sleeves, with blue passementerie, threaded with silver. Passementerie borders the bottom and forms a girdle with long ends down the back of the skirt. There is a high Medici collar of blue Dister are in a pitiable condition and that in | in a bunch of ostrich feathers and bow of green

The other gown was a dinner costume of apple green faille with a court train. The front and train are bordered with rich velvet chrysanthemums in shades of yellow and brown. Tints of lilac, yellow, silver and gold are artistically intermingled.

The left side of the skirt had a plain broad velvet panel of green, bordered with elaborate embroidery in harmony with the rest of the gown. The bodice was low with a pointed back and short puffed sleeves, embroidered with yellow crystal. There was passementeric, front and back, and a narrow braid of green velvet extending to a girdle of invested passes. velvet extending to a girdle of jeweled passe-menterie in shades of yellow. This fell down the front of the skirt, ending in a fringe of white crystal beads.
The dresses were designed by Felix of Paris, and arrived here late in July. They were in-voiced at 1,000 francs, but were seized by the custom house officers after being appraised at custom house officers after being appraised at 3,500 francs. The duty and the penalty of under-valuation, amounting to $416.88, Mrs. Astor declined to pay. Hence the sale. One of the dresses was bought by a dry goods firm for $660, while the other was sold for $770 to the proprietors of a highly-tinted concert hall in town.

Begged That She Might Smoke Policeman William Boyle of the Old Slip station arrested a little old woman begging at Nassau and John streets yesterday, says the New York Sun. At the Tombs police court she said that sho was Kate Regan of 31 Wash-

"How old are you, Kate?" asked the justice. "I'll be one hundred next St. Patrick's Day, bless the court," replied Kate.

"Were you begging?"
"I were, but it's not me habit. I needed a ittle money for terbaccy and wint out after it."
"Have you any relatives?" asked the justice.
"None; me husband died during the war." "Was he a soldier?"

"Soldier, yer eye! I'm one hundred years old now and he was only forty when he died; but if he was alive I could lick him this minute." "Well, Kate, I'm going to send you to the alms house," and he committed the woman for six months.

The President's Day. The President gave up most of yesterday morning to Secretary Rusk in going over department affairs. The Secretary left for Washngton in the afternoon. The President has directed the State Department to enter a strong protest with Minister Pacheco for the Salvadoran authorities against the seizure of the City of Panama who vessel calls at Central American ports on her return passage. He suggests diplomacy as the means to settle the difficulty and conveys the mpression in his instructions that American roperty will be protected at all hazards. C. W. Would Not Accept the Bond. Judge Benedict of the United States district court. New York, yesterday handed down a decision declining to accept Cornelius H. and Jacob Tallman as bondsmen in the sum of $50,000 for James A. Simmons, under sentence of six years' imprisonment for bank wrecking. He discovered that Simmons had given the arties an indemnity contract for the sum and aid that he did not care to aid any scheme of flight, as such it appeared on the face. Sim-mons wishes his liberty while the stay of execuion of sentence pending appeal is in force.

John A. Webb, a wealthy old farmer, residing at Webb's Hill, Illinois, was married thirtynine years ago and has brought up a family of twelve children. His wife died only six weeks ago, but as "Uncle John" believed in the literal interpretation of and a prompt compliance with the scriptural admonition, "It is not good for man to be alone," yesterday he took unto himself a second helpmeet.

"Uncle John s" church, the Middlefork Hardshell Baptist, held its monthly meeting in the afternoon, and the minister preached the funeral sermon of "Uncle John's" wife. Immediately after the service the minister went to "Uncle John's" residence and married him to Mrs. Melinda Buyer, a Hardshell sister of thirty

In a Hurry to Marry.

Young Garfield Defeated. The state senatorial convention of districts twenty-four and twenty-six was held in Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday. The late President Garfield's son, James R. Garfield, was a candidate from Lake county. His name was put before D. Lane of Limestone county commissioner of the convention by Capt. Burrows, a political opponent of President Garfield during the lat-ter's career. But young Garfield did not get the nomination. He was snowed under on the first tallet by ex-Speaker Lampson of Ashta-bula. Lampson received 105 votes to Garfield's 65. What made the convention interesting was the fight between Sherman and Foraker, who are actively building fences for the United States senatorship. Lampson is a Foraker man and Garfield a Shermanite.

Will Ruin the Alliance. Ex-President U. S. Hall of the Missonri Alliance has issued an appeal in the shape of a circular letter, addressed to all the subtreasury leaders throughout this and other states, ask ing them to meet and select delegates to she adjourned before noon to meet today pending the action of the committee considering the penitentiary bill. The penitentiary committee of the house and senate are beginning to discuss the convict penitentiary and lease system. All are anxious for some solution of the question, but no plan which meets with general approval has yet been suggested. Highest of all in Leavening Power .- Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Best!

Is the OLDEST and most firmly established newspaper published in the District of Columbia, having won the high position it holds in the confidence of the people of Washington by forty years of faithful and unswerving devotion to their interests, without regard to any other influence or consideration whatsoever.

THE STAR is the LARGEST paper published in Washington, with a general equipment and printing facilities three-fold greater and better than those of any other Washington paper; and, having the full Day Reports of both the New York Associated Press and the United Press, supplemented by an unequaled service of Exclusive Special Dispatches from all prominent points in America and Europe, it prints more and fresher Telegraphic News than any other Washington paper can possibly supply, furnishing at the same time a greater amount and better quality of Local, Domestic and General Intelligence, and a larger quantity and higher grade of Original and Selected Literary Miscellany than any paper in the Dis-

Being delivered at the homes of regular subscribers for the trifling sum of ten cents per week, THE STAR is much the CHEAPEST paper published in the District, as well as the BEST.

THE STAR'S circulation in the City of Washington is more than three times larger than that of any other newspaper, and the number of its readers more than five times as many. As an advertising medium it therefore stands without a competitor, whether either EXTENT or QUALITY of circulation is considered. That the intelligent public thoroughly understands these facts and acts upon them is conclusively shown by the steady and rapid growth of the paper's business both in circulation and advertising patronage.

Note This Point.

THE STAR gives the exact figures of its circulation every week, and cheerfully opens its books and press and delivery rooms to any person having interest in the correctness of its statements, so that its patrons know precisely how much and what kind of publicity they are getting when they buy space in its columns.

THE STAR is the only paper in Washington that thus takes the public into its confidence. and few papers anywhere are willing to do it. This fact is more expressive than any words
